Union Budget session begins today

New Delhi, Jul 6 : Presentation of the first Budget by the Narendra Modi government will be the high-light of the over month-long session of Parliament starting tomorrow amidst signals that the issue of price rise could generate heat.

Opposition parties have a number of issues to target the government, including the recent controversy over the government rejecting the name of former Solicitor General Gopal Subramaniam for appointment as a judge of the apex court.

A highlight of the proceedings on the opening day is expected to be a statement from External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj in both Houses of Parliament on the situation of Indians in Iraq.

While presentation of the Railway Budget is scheduled for July 8, the Economic Survey will be released the next day and the Union Budget 2014-2015 will be presented on July 10.

The government also intends to bring Bills to replace the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (Amendment) Ordinance, 2014, and a Bill to replace the Ordinance with respect to the Polavaram project under the Andhra Pradesh Reorganisation (Amendment) Ordinance, 2014.

The TRAI (Amendment) Ordinance cleared on May 28 ensured that the government could appoint Nripendra Misra as Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister, the AP Ordinance was promulgated on May 29, ahead of the official bifurcation of the state on June 2. — PTI

Vegetable prices skyrocket in North Kashmir

SHAHID RAFIQ

Kupwara, July 6: The consumers in this north Kashmir district today complained against profiteering and hoarding by the traders to effect undue increase in the prices.

The consumers complained that the traders were overcharging from them while the authorities were acting as mute spectators to this exploitation.

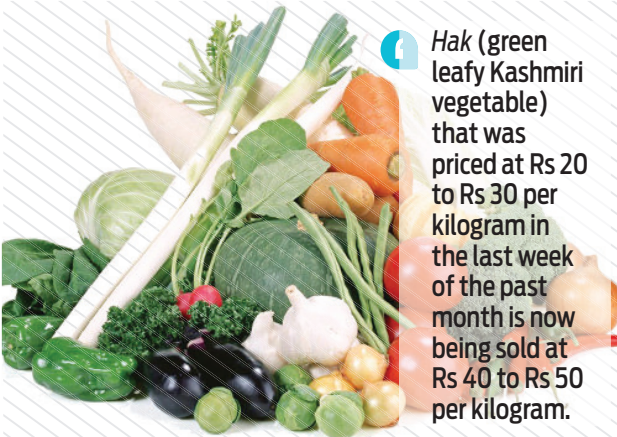

"The traders in Kupwara, Handwara, Sogam, Kralpora and Trehgam don't adhere to the government approved rates and sell the goods at arbitrarily rates," they said.

"What can a customer do, if he or she argues with the traders? It leads to scuffle at times, yet no authority takes any action against them," the consumers alleged.

The customers said in absence of any market checking by the Consumer Affairs and Public Distribution, the profiteers were having a field day.

"We fail to understand why the department (CAPD) which is supposed to keep a check on the rates, is not doing its duty," Ghulam Mohammad, a Kupwara resident asked.

and middle class customers are not in a position to buy them.

"I daily come to the Kupwara market to buy the fruit and after inquiring rates I return empty handed," Mohammad Amin a local said.

Watermelon being sold at Rs 20 per KG a few days ago is now sold at Rs 40 to Rs 50, the consumers said.

Even the vegetables grown locally are sold at very high prices compared to what the rates they were sold at early this month.

Hak (green leafy Kashmiri vegetable) that was priced at Rs 20 to Rs 30 per kilogram in the last week of the past month is now being sold at Rs 40 to Rs 50 per kilogram.

Rate of pea per KG in Kupwara is Rs 50, and cucumber is sold at Rs 50 per kilo against Rs 20 before beginning of holy month of Ramadhan.

The consumers alleged that despite fixing the rate of mutton, the butchers were selling it at the Rs 380 per kg. There is absolutely no control over the prices and quality of the products and eatables particularly in Kupwara district.

Consumers were also seen complaining about the sub-standard quality and adulterated edibles and spurious drugs being sold here.

Market checking squads nowhere: Baramulla consumers

ALTAF BABA

Baramulla, July 6: The vegetable prices in this district have witnessed sharp rise after the beginning of Ramadan, with consumers complaining that in absence of market checking squads the traders are having a field day.

Locally grown hak (leafy green vegetable commonly used in Kashmir) is being sold at Rs 50 a kg, while bottle-gourd is available at Rs 50 a piece.

The brinjal selling at Rs 90 per kg have gone out of bounds for the ordinary consumers. The beans are being sold at Rs 100 per kg while the onion and the tomato are sold at Rs 30 and 40 per kg respectively.

Feeling the heat of the soaring prices, the consumers here accuse the administration of failing to check the arbitrary reign in profiteers by starting a drive to control the profiteering and adultera-price hikes by the traders.

Zareefa Begum, a housewife while reacting to the soaring vegetable prices said: "From the onset of Ramadhan I have been using pulses because I cannot afford to purchase the vegetables."

"Eating vegetables has become now a dream for people like me. How can I afford to have one kg of brinjal at Rs 90," she explained.

Muhammad Yousuf, a local said: "I think the authorities have left the people on the mercy of vegetable vendors who are arbitrary fixing the rates."

He said unlike in the past years, the district administration seems not to have constituted market checking squads this Ramadhan giving the traders liberty to loot consumers.

tion and adhere to the rate lists and keep the rate lists available at their shops.
