Islamabad, July 16: Pakistan's air strikes today killed at least 35 militants who were trying to flee from the restive North Waziristan tribal region, where the military is mounting a major offensive against the Taliban militants.

"Today early morning 35 fleeing terrorists were killed through aerial strikes in Shawal Valley," the military said in a short one line statement.

The strikes came after deadly clashes yesterday in which five soldiers and 11 militants were killed in Mirali area of the district. So far more than 480 rebels have been killed. Meanwhile, thousands of people from five villages bordering Afghanistan in Bajaur tribal region have fled after reports said that army was planning operation against militants hiding there, officials said today.

The government had given the militants Tuesday afternoon as deadline to
